

Intersections

CANADIAN JOURNAL OF MUSIC / REVUE CANADIENNE DE MUSIQUE

DECOLONIZING MUSIC PEDAGOGIES

GUEST EDITORS: ROBIN ATTAS AND MARGARET E. WALKER.

---

CONTENTS	39/1 (2019)	SOMMAIRE
Editorial: Exploring Decolonization, Music, and Pedagogy Robin Attas and Margaret E. Walker . . . . .		3
Expanding the University Music Ensemble: Lessons from an Intercultural Collaboration D. Linda Pearse . . . . .		21
Decolonizing Desires and Unsettling Musicology: A Settler's Personal Story of Researching and Teaching Indigenous Music at an American University Alexa Woloshyn . . . . .		41
Building Relationships, Sustaining Communities: Decolonial Directions in Higher Ed Bluegrass Pedagogy Travis D. Stimeling and Sophia M. Enriquez . . . . .		57
How We Got into Drum Circles, and How to Get Out: De-Essentializing African Music Quintina Carter-Ényì, Aaron Carter-Ényì, and Kevin Nathaniel Hylton . .		73
Decolonization in "Wild Schools": Local Music Pedagogies in Indonesia's Taman Siswa School System Gillian Irwin . . . . .		93
Reflets de la colonialité dans la scène des musiques nouvelles Gabriel Dharmoo . . . . .		105
The Long and Narrow Road: An Inuit Student's Journey Through Post-Secondary Music Kendra Jacque and Ellen Waterman . . . . .		123

To All Who Should Be Concerned
Dylan Robinson ..... 137

BOOK REVIEW

Dylan Robinson. 2020. Hungry Listening: Resonant Theory for Indigenous Sound Studies.
Rena Roussin ..... 145

ERRATA

For issue 38 1–2 ..... 150